Adios Au Revoir Farewell

FOR CONTRIBUTIONS made, for services to be rendered in the future, you seniors, perennial flowers of June, merit the best wishes of us who tarry yet awhile. A salue of some fashion would not be misplaced. But what shall the salute be and how shall it be expressed?

If there be a president among you, you should have a salute of 21 guns. If there be a governor among you, then it should be 19 guns, while an admiral should get 17 guns. And why shouldn't there be these and more?

So the Kernel, your campus newspaper, offers in the name of the student body to the senior class of '38 a highly deserved:

Boom	B00m	poom
Boom	Boom	Boom
Boom!	Boom	1

And having fired our typographical salute, we unload our guns, wish you well and give credit to the Cleveland News which once saluted Mrs. The compliments helped a lot and we have tried Roosevelt with 21 "booms" as we have given you to improve by your criticisms. 2 symbolical 38.

POSTSCRIPTUM

It will be considered as a personal insult if anyone suggests or intimates that there is any relation between "Boom" and "Bum." EPIDEMIC, HAS HIT the campus. The disease is the diseased Polygamipuss examitossis. It seems that this scourge visits students twice a year-in January and again in May and lavs waste all that fall in its wake.

We have a serious case of this malady commonly referred to as the quiz pad blues. They words-mace the history, define, compare, conmast, summerize-hanni us. Nothing summerized is still nothing. Nothing minus nothing divided by nothing added to nothing is still nothing. And nothing is all we know.

Term papers are soon due. We went to the library one night this week to get started. That ment to instructors, in the hope of elimination of cut grades. The s the building north of Pence hall and west of student is appalled at the amount the President's home. It can be recognized by the many windows that hold up the roof.

In this huilding many books on many different subjects can be found-occasionally. These books rest peacefully in shelves from the last part of one semester to the last part of the next. Then they are sometimes used.

And, we got locked in the stacks one day. A week passed without food or drink before someone came to let us ont. We have been 100 scared 10 go back until recently.

This time the atmosphere was quite friendly. The statute of Tom Jefferson is still there and he still looks as disgusted as he did last year. The woman that makes you put out your cigarette is there too. There seems to be just as many books, although we did not have time to count all those on the top floor.

We read the funny papers for about an hour, then it got so crowded that we could study no longer. We tried to get out that Psychology book, but it wasn't in and eight people were on the waiting list ahead of us. That was too much;

If we don't start wook soon, we'll flunk all our courses. We've got 10 find someone with a notebook so we can copy the lecture notes that we missed. We've got to get hold of the Phi Beta Kappa girl who promised to work those Physics problems for us. Work, work, work. Looks like we are going to be at it all week.

PROFITS AND LOSS

Now that the four years' struggle over for the Seniors and they to note the ideas that some of them have on the college life as a whole. Having asked the opinions of a few of the graduating students, I have found that they are divided in their opinions as to the value of what they have gotten from it all. In an attempt to get answers to he questions "Has coilege been worth what you paid for it?" "Have you gotten out of college what you hoped to?" and "Do you think that it was worth the fight?" I received were voiced seemed to sum up the two outlooks on the question very nicely. Mr. Kari Vogel, when ques-tioned, gave the following—"Yes, oliege has been worth what I put into it and more. It has broadened Through the qualifications of any education, I am eligible for, and have already received a job. With-out my college course, I know that would never have gotten it. Coiege is worth anyone's time, and he value of it cannot be disputed. It has destroyed the intellectual curiosoty which I posshort a time. He wonders what he has been doing all semester, and curses himself for his laziness. So less when I entered the University curses himself for his laziness. So less when I entered the University it was in the beginning, Is now, and will be when Junior comes to colthe value?"

EXPENSE FOR FUTURE NIGHTMARE?

Which of the afore-mentioned gentlemen is right in his statement? Is college worth it? It seems obvious that four years spent in study study, equip the student with a better working knowledge of his work than no education at ail. The ques-tion is, "Does four years in coilege benefit the individual more than four years of actual work in his chosen fleid?" Many men have argued this question, and there are given for both sides. To be sure many different opinions. Some of advantages of a superior education, the students were very satisfied but the most common error that dubious as to the wisdom of their former pursuits.
